Letter to shareholders

Dear shareholders, business partners and employees

Despite a turbulent first half, Intershop's business performance has shown welcome stability. As expected, the results and rental income reduced as a result of the earlier property disposals and the termination of the leases of two larger development properties. Net profit decreased over the exceptional previous year by 19% to CHF 34 million, which represents a profit of CHF 18.06 per share. The return on equity amounted to 10.3%. However, in addition to aforementioned causes, Covid-19 has also left its mark with a further reduction in rental income of around CHF 1 million in the form of waivers of rent and valuation adjustments on deferred payment schemes. Overall, rental income reduced by almost 6%. A profit contribution of CHF 14.5 million came from the sale of the apartment complex in Kilchberg and a plot of land in the industrial park in Oberwinterthur-Neuhegi. The revaluation of the portfolio resulted in a marginal appreciation of CHF 0.9 million, while interest expenses shrank by more than 12% due to cheaper refinancing. In contrast, tax expenses increased significantly. The previous period was influenced by a reduction in deferred taxes of more than CHF 6 million.

Profit per share in the first half of the year (in CHF)

Intershop started the current financial year in a confident mood, which was reflected in February in the 2019 Annual Report. Around one month later, Switzerland was in lockdown due to the pandemic and the economy was on a direct course into recession. This dramatic development has had an impact on the property sector. Many companies had to temporarily stop their business activities or to some extent were confronted with significant reductions in demand. Accordingly, the previously robust demand for rental space dropped almost completely and individual tenants were no longer able to fulfill their contractual obligations in full. In addition, the transaction market has responded sluggishly. Previously negotiated transactions largely went through, although new offers for commercial property rarely appeared on the market since the prevailing restrictions of Covid-19 made pricing more difficult. Several reasons for lower property values, such as the looming recession and changes in user behaviour, the key word here being homeoffice, have been balanced by the knowledge that the low interest rate phase will now last much longer than previously expected and that any renewed significant increases in liquidity will enhance the demand for safe investment opportunities. In this challenging environment, Intershop sold two investments, but made no purchases.

At the end of the reporting period, equity capital stood at CHF 653 million, a fall of only CHF 13 million below the level at the beginning of the year. Some 72% of the dividend, increased to CHF 25 per share, has already been generated during the first half of the year. Net asset value per share amounted to CHF 347 at the end of the reporting period.

Business review

As mentioned before, after a hopeful start to the new year, the situation changed spectacularly. Companies that were immediately and heavily affected by the lockdown, such as restaurants, hotels and non-food retailers luckily do not form a significant part of the Intershop tenant mix. Nevertheless, some 200 tenants with an annual rental volume of approximately CHF 20 million reached out with the aim of discussing their rent payment obligation. Intershop decided from the start to review all cases individually and, where appropriate and necessary, to offer a hand for solutions. Granting payment postponement in the form of deferred payment scheme was paramount and, in justified cases, rent was even waived. This resulted in a further reduction of rental income amounting to some CHF 1.0 million caused by rent waivers and valuation adjustments on deferred payment schemes.

In terms of transactions, Intershop sold the apartment complex in Kilchberg, a plot of land in the industrial park in Oberwinterthur-Neuhegi and certified the sale of 63 commonhold apartments, currently under construction in Basle and Baden. As of the balance sheet date, 78 of the 108 apartments were sold and 22 reserved in writing. No favourable acquisitions could be identified.

Property management, leasing and developments as a priority

Supporting our customers or tenants proved to be extremely challenging and time-consuming in the first half of the year. A key operational focus was the leasing of spaces that are vacant or for which notice has been received. Although a fully leased property was sold in Kilchberg, the vacancy rate of the investment properties reduced slightly from 8.0% to 7.9%. The net yield of the investment property portfolio came to an appealing 5.2% in the first half of the year despite corona-related pressure.

In addition, work on the ongoing development projects continued intensively. All planning and construction projects moved forward, with pandemic-related restrictions leading to delays both in the approval process and on the construction sites. In the meantime, however, all projects and construction works are largely operating normally again. The private design plan for the «AuPark» in Wädenswil, near Zurich was reviewed and approved in the first half of the year by the Canton of Zurich's building department and became legally valid in July. The completion of the construction at Rue de Lausanne 42+44 in Geneva has been delayed by about three months and is now expected in the fourth quarter of 2020. The access road to develop the plot of land in Oberwinterthur-Neuhegi was completed and on 29 June 2020, the sale of a part of this plot of approx. 16,000 m² was recorded in the land register. The buyer plans to construct and operate a data centre. The building permit for an assembly plant for «Stadler» arrived in August. Both parties have a right to withdraw from the lease agreement and are currently examining the consequences of the imposed conditions.

Organisation

At the 57th annual general meeting, which took place without the participation of shareholders due to the corona pandemic, all agenda items were agreed. Amongst others, the present Board of Directors was confirmed for another period of office.

Outlook

The longer-term consequences of the pandemic and its associated restrictions are currently difficult to assess. Even if the leasing market has recovered since the balance sheet date, demand is significantly below the level pre-pandemic. In the current situation, many prospective tenants are afraid to commit to long-term obligations. Despite the positive trend for vacancy levels in the first half of the year, Intershop still expects an increase in the vacancy rate on a scale of a good 10% by the end of the year due to the departure of the largest tenant at the World Trade Center in Lausanne. On a like-for-like basis, rental income should be in the range of the first half of the year, provided we do not have another complete lockdown. On the transaction side, Intershop continues to monitor the market very closely. Any buying opportunities are exploited if sustainable added value can be achieved as a result. As before, the aim is to sell all the commonhold apartments under development in Basle and Baden before construction is complete. Due to construction delays, the apartments in Basle are now expected to be transferred towards the end of the first quarter of 2021. If other attractive disposal opportunities arise, they will continue to be seized. No statements can be made regarding the further development of the market value of property in general. Ignoring any changes to market values and provided that the consequences of the pandemic do not negatively influence the second half of the year, Intershop will again be able to achieve good year-end figures which should enable it to maintain its attractive dividend policy.

Real estate portfolio

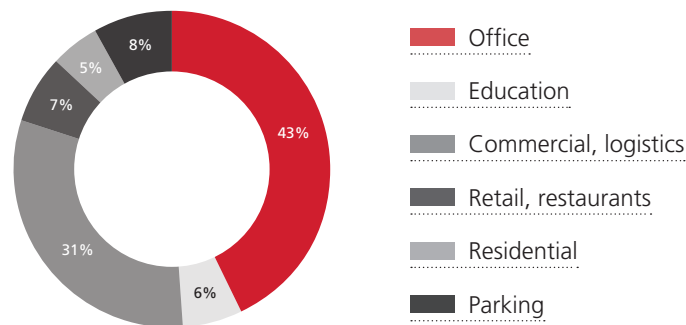

After a confident start to the new year, the situation suddenly changed with the global spread of Covid-19. In contrast to the leasing market, the transaction market reacted rather hesitantly. Previously agreed transactions still went through, as did the sale of the residential complex in Kilchberg and the disposal of a plot of land on the industrial park in Oberwinterthur-Neuhegi. However, the number of transactions negotiated and concluded in the market during the pandemic was significantly below the previous year. Due to this weak data, it is difficult to make any firm statement on further development, although it does seem that the trend of the last few years will continue due to the extension of the period of lower interest rates. Core real estate and well-let properties with tenants with good credit ratings remain sought-after. This also applies to residential properties in central locations. The interest in properties that do not have these attributes is expected to decline and the prices are likely to come under slight pressure. It is likely to become difficult for retail properties, such as shopping centres, and hotels. Intershop monitored the transaction market very attentively throughout the entire first half of the year but could not identify any attractive buying opportunities.

Tenants, whose businesses were forced to shut down, were affected immediately and directly by the lockdown. These were in particular restaurants, hotels and non-food retailers. Intershop's exposure to these sectors has been very limited for many years. However, other sectors also suffered from the consequences of the pandemic. Schools were not able to be kept open, fitness centres were closed and indirectly affected suppliers and service providers, such as event agencies, medical services etc., expressed difficulty in being able to meet their rental obligations. Intershop decided to review all cases individually and, where appropriate and necessary, to offer a hand for solutions. Granting deferred payment schemes was paramount, but also waivers of rent were given if deferred payments did not offer a sustainable solution. These generally constructive negotiations were made noticeably more difficult by political developments at federal level, which even ended in a legislative proposal with the obligation to a partial waiver of rent. Contrary to the recommendation of the Swiss Federal Council, the Swiss parliament plans to violate the rights of ownership and intends to reallocate the funds and assets of third parties as it sees fit. The fact that in the Council of States, even supposedly liberal representatives, supported these requests, does not bode well for the future. Economically however, this decision will only have a marginal effect on Intershop since comparable solutions have already been agreed with the majority of the affected tenants or are under negotiation. The total amount of rent waived was CHF 0.7 million in the first half of the year and a further provision was made for CHF 0.3 million for rents under deferred payment schemes.

The demand for office space came abruptly to a halt in March, but the situation eased noticeably again from the end of the half year. Homeoffice has quickly become widespread and proven its worth, which has greatly promoted its acceptance. There is no doubt that working from home has now become an integral part of our working environment and, as a result of this, the need for office space is more likely to decrease. However, it also seems to confirm that the previously-aspired-to minimisation of the space required per employee has probably peaked and, in future, more space must be made available again to employees working in the office. How these two conflicting trends will impact on the office market in the medium term cannot currently be forecast reliably. The situation in the retail sector, which came under increasing pressure from strong growth in online shopping, appears somewhat clearer. The demand for space outside highly frequented locations will continue to decrease and will have corresponding effects on rents in such areas, in particular on older, medium-sized shopping centres in outlying locations. In many manufacturing businesses, sharp, short term decreases in production occurred as supply chains were interrupted or demand collapsed, although many companies still had solid order books on hand from the beginning of the year. As such, any recession will be visible only in the form of a time lag. In the mid-term, however, the now evident susceptibility of supply chains will result in many businesses considering relocating certain production steps to countries with the lowest costs and to bring back production capacities in order to protect supply. This would greatly support the demand for properties suited to this purpose. The residential sector proved to be an anchor of stability. However, since the reference interest rate in the first half of the year fell to 1.25%, this income will tend to decrease marginally over the course of the year. In addition to adapting to pandemic-related consequences, the focus of the past half-year has once again been the leasing of empty space as well as ongoing and planned developments.

Portfolio according to types of use (based on rental income in the reporting period)

A sales-related decline in rental income and decreasing vacancy rate

As a result of sales, the ongoing repositioning of the development properties in Baden and Pfäffikon (SZ) as well as any pandemic-related reduced income, rental income fell by 5.8% to CHF 39.5 million. In a difficult environment compared to mid-2019, vacancy rates for investment properties fell by 1.6 and, compared to the end of 2019, by 0.1 percentage points. On a like-for-like basis, rental income on the investment property portfolio went down by 0.5% and vacancy rates decreased by 0.2 percentage points. «Puls 5» in Zurich, which is almost fully leased, showed a positive performance. The properties in Dielsdorf and Reinach were also able to record successful lettings. The short-term increase in vacancies in real estate properties at Rue de Lausanne in Geneva, Redingstrasse in Basle, and Hofweg in Berne, can be attributed to the ongoing renovation work. In order to prevent complications, Intershop will refrain from temporarily reletting new space in certain cases just before and during renovation work. Reletting will continue in a timely manner once construction work has been completed.

Development of the vacancy rate for the investment property portfolio as at 30 June

Developments in portfolio despite pandemic very favourable

The pandemic also had an impact on the development activities. Approval procedures took longer and, in most cases, there were delays in execution, i.e. on construction sites. The greatest impact on Intershop was in Geneva, where work was temporarily shut down, followed by a gradual restart. The renovation and addition of another storey at Rue de Lausanne will therefore be completed in late autumn 2020 with a delay of approximately three months. In Basle, Baden and Pfäffikon, the work progressed slower than planned since restrictions relating to Covid-19 had to be implemented into construction processes. Nevertheless, all projects progressed positively overall.

The private design plan, «AuPark» in Wädenswil, was approved by the Canton of Zurich's building department during the reporting period. After the time limit for appeals lapsed at the beginning of July, the design plan became legally valid. Following broad support from the local council in July 2019, Intershop started preparatory work for the building application last year and intends to submit the application during the course of the second half of the year. In spring this year, the owners of both neighbouring properties began with the reconstruction plan of «Albanteich-Promenade» in Basle, which proposes an expansion to the existing high-rise residential buildings, and construction work is now underway. Intershop anticipates that the construction work on its' two extensions will be carried out in the current half of the year and that renovation work on the existing buildings will be undertaken at the beginning of 2021. Construction work on the commonhold apartments project at «Gellertstrasse» is back on track. The sale of apartments was also satisfactory. As of the balance sheet date, 22 of the 30 apartments were sold and a further three reserved in writing. Due to construction delays, the apartments in Basle can probably only be formally signed over towards the end of the first quarter of 2021.

The demolition work of the promotional project «Römerstrasse» in Baden was started at the end of 2019. Subsequently, the preparatory work started underground, which was still ongoing as of the balance sheet date. The sale of the 78 commonhold apartments started fantastically well in April 2020. Within less than three months, 56 apartments were sold and 19 reserved in writing. The architectural quality, the location but also the marketing concept was obviously convincing. The previously vacant plot of land on the industrial park in Oberwinterthur-Neuhegi was further developed during the reporting period with the completion of the newly constructed «Fabrikstrasse». The prospective buyer for a land parcel of 16,325 m² concluded the transaction at the end of June and has a purchase right for a further good 11,000 m². On the remaining plot, there are plans to construct an assembly plant for «Stadler». The imposed conditions in the building permit received at the beginning of August are now being reviewed by the tenant and Intershop, as both parties have the right to withdraw from the lease.

Financials

Successful half of the year with return on equity of 10.3%

The rental income at Intershop fell by 5.8% to CHF 39.5 million in the first half of 2020 compared with the previous year. The decline is primarily attributable to the termination of leases of the two development properties in Pfäffikon and Baden as well as the disposals made in 2019 and 2020. In addition, the pandemic-related negative earnings effect of CHF 1.0 million were greater than the positive effects of the letting successes achieved. The gross yield of the investment property portfolio was 6.0%, 0.2% lower due the effects of Covid-19.

The sale of apartment complex at Schlossmattstrasse, Kilchberg and part of the land on the industrial park, Oberwinterthur-Neuhegi, resulted in a gain of CHF 14.5 million.

Property expense held stable and amounted to a low 10.6% of rental income. The net yield for the investment properties resulting from the effective rental income received less property-related costs was 5.2% in the first half of the year, which despite the effects of the pandemic, is an excellent result.

Net yield on investment property portfolio as at 30 June in %

While administrative expenditure was reduced by 10.3% compared to the previous year, personnel expenses increased by 1.5%, while the headcount increased by three employees to 75 compared to the year end and the number of full-time equivalents rose by one to 66.

Based on the estimate of the property portfolio's market value as of 30 June 2020 by KPMG Real Estate, the market value showed an increase of CHF 0.9 million, which corresponds to 0.1% of the portfolio value after deduction of the investments made in the reporting period. The significant value drivers were changes in the rental situation, actual and newly planned investments and lower discount rates as well as a change in inflation assumptions. Since the effects of planning and development projects can only be included in the valuation once valid planning permission has been obtained, the valuation result in the first half of 2020 was negatively impacted by accrued project costs of CHF 0.8 million. The range of the nominal discount rates has contracted slightly at 3.5%–6.5% compared to 3.2%–6.7% at the end of 2019.

Despite an increase in debt levels of CHF 23 million compared to the end of the first half of last year, interest costs fell by CHF 0.6 million or 12.0% to CHF 4.5 million due to lower interest rates. As in the previous first half of the year, financial income of less than CHF 0.1 million was generated.

The tax expense increased significantly by CHF 6.7 million to CHF 7.7 million compared to the previous year. This was due to the one-off effects that were recorded in the previous year as a result of tax rate reductions decided in accordance with TRAF (Swiss tax reform and AHV financing) which resulted in a reduction of deferred tax liabilities of some CHF 6.8 million.

Profit after tax was 19.0% below the previous year's value and amounted to CHF 33.9 million, which corresponds to a return on equity of 10.3%.

Strong balance sheet with equity ratio of 48%

Due to the investments made in the investment property portfolio and the promotional projects in the first half of 2020, the value of the property portfolio rose slightly compared to the year end, regardless of disposals. Interest-bearing financial liabilities amounting to CHF 531.0 million are CHF 27.0 million higher compared to 31 December 2019, and the average interest rate reduced from 1.79% by the end of the year to 1.66%.

Despite the dividend distribution of CHF 47.0 million, equity reduced by only CHF 13.0 million. This resulted in a very solid equity ratio of 48.0%.

Average interest rate of financial liabilities as at 30 June

Above-average performance of Intershop shares

The total return on Intershop shares in the first half of 2020, i.e. the change in the stock price, plus dividends paid, was 4.4% in a difficult stock market environment and was significantly above the benchmark index, SXI Swiss Real Estate Shares TR, at -13.3%.

Stable shareholder base

At the end of June 2020, Intershop had 1,109 registered shareholders. No reportable thresholds were exceeded or fell short in the reporting period. Since the end of the year, the unregistered shares have increased from 14.0% to 16.0%. As in the past, approximately 98% of the shares registered with voting rights are held by shareholders resident in Switzerland.

Estimates and assumptions

The preparation of the half-year financial statements in accordance with Swiss GAAP FER requires the use of estimates and assumptions that affect the accounting policies to be applied and the amounts reported under assets, liabilities, income and expenses as well as their presentation. The estimates and assumptions are based on past experience or expectations that are believed to be reasonable under the circumstances. The estimates and assumptions are continually reviewed. The actual values may nevertheless differ from these estimates. The most important positions, which are based on assumptions and estimates, are the fair market value of investment and development properties, provisions and deferred tax liabilities.
